AURICLES, or External Ears for the Deaf.

- A, Spring, capable of being graduated to any size required, passing over the head to support the Auricles in the proper position.
- B B, Gradually diminishing tubes, by means of which the large body of sound received at the openings E E is reflected to a powerful focus at c c.
- C C, Tubes opening into the ear, conducting the condensed rays of sound directly to the tympanum.

AURICLES, No. 1, $6; No. 2, $6; No. 3, $6.50; No. 4 . $7.00

It will be perceived, by reference to the accompanying woodcut, that this apparatus is intended to reflect, by means of a gradually diminishing tube, a large body of rays of sound into the ear, and thus to aid the hearing. An idea of the manner in which it acts may be derived from the way in which lenses or spectacles act upon light. As spectacles refract rays of light to the eye, so these reflect, in as great a degree, rays of sound to the ear. They are, therefore, to the ear what spectacles are to the eye. They are made of a sonorous metal, in such a manner as to combine great efficiency with the greatest convenience; and are so light as hardly to be felt, when short experience has accustomed the wearer to their use. They may be concealed from observation by means of the hair or head-dress, and worn with the hat or bonnet. There are four sizes, for different degrees of deafness; and, in sending orders, it should be stated whether they are intended for a person slightly, moderately, or very deaf. They can be sent to any part of the country without injury; and will be exchanged, if not suited to the particular degree of deafness. By reason of their successful use in many hundred instances where we have sold them, we offer them with much confidence in their utility.—A liberal discount will be made to those purchasing by the quantity to sell again.

This Battery is superior in several particulars to those which have been in the market for a few years past. Either the direct or to-and-fro current may be procured at will. The use, and consequent noise and friction, of cog-wheels is avoided; the liability to get out of order diminished; and, by a simple contrivance, the band is kept at the requisite tension in damp or dry weather. To these the attention of the trade is particularly invited. The following cut represents the Battery with front of box removed, for the purpose of showing the machinery more clearly.

DISSECTING CASES. Of these we have a very large assortment, embracing French, English, and American, at prices ranging from $4 to $10 each, but would refer particularly to the following styles, which we import from Charriere, and which in respect to quality are fully warranted. The trade will be supplied with these styles on favorable terms; and a discount made in favor of Colleges and Schools ordering a large number at one time.

No. 1, New Style, very compact, of Turkey Morocco, containing six Scalpel Blades of different sizes, two Handles for Scalpels, capable of being locked securely to any of the Blades, Straight Scissors, Dissecting Forceps, and set Chains and Hooks 4.00

No. 2, Zinc foundation covered with varnished cloth, containing six Scalpels of different sizes, Straight Scissors, Dissecting Forceps, and set of Chains and Hooks. In this Case there is also room for as many instruments as in No. 3 4.50

No. 3, Zinc foundation covered with varnished cloth, containing six Scalpels of different sizes, Straight Scissors, Curved Scissors, Dissecting Forceps, Chisel, set Chains and Hooks, Blowpipe, Grooved Director, and Probe 6.00

No. 4. This Case is exactly like No. 3, with the exception that it is covered with goatskin instead of varnished cloth, and in this respect is more elegant and durable. It is the style usually selected when the purchaser is present to choose, and of which we sell by far the greater number $7.00

VISITING LISTS, the best styles, ready on the approach of each year, at publishers' prices.

WHITE'S PATENT LEVER TRUSS.

This instrument is entirely new in principle, and differs radically from all other Trusses. It combines many new and valuable points of great importance; and is recommended for its simplicity, efficiency, and the ease with which it is fitted and worn.

All the power is in the short spring s, and is perfectly controlled by the screw d. The pad p has a combined circular inward and upward action, working over the knuckle k. It is small, light, durable, and cleanly, (coverings changed at pleasure). It is believed that more radical cures can be effected by it than by any other Truss.
